

DART FOUNDATIONSM

History

The Dart Foundation is a private family foundation established in 1984 by William A. and Claire T. Dart. Founded in Mason, Michigan, the Dart Foundation continues to be headquartered here. Because of this, the mid-Michigan area has long been a focal point of Dart Foundation philanthropy. Each year grants are awarded in other areas of the United States, and a select number of national grants are made.

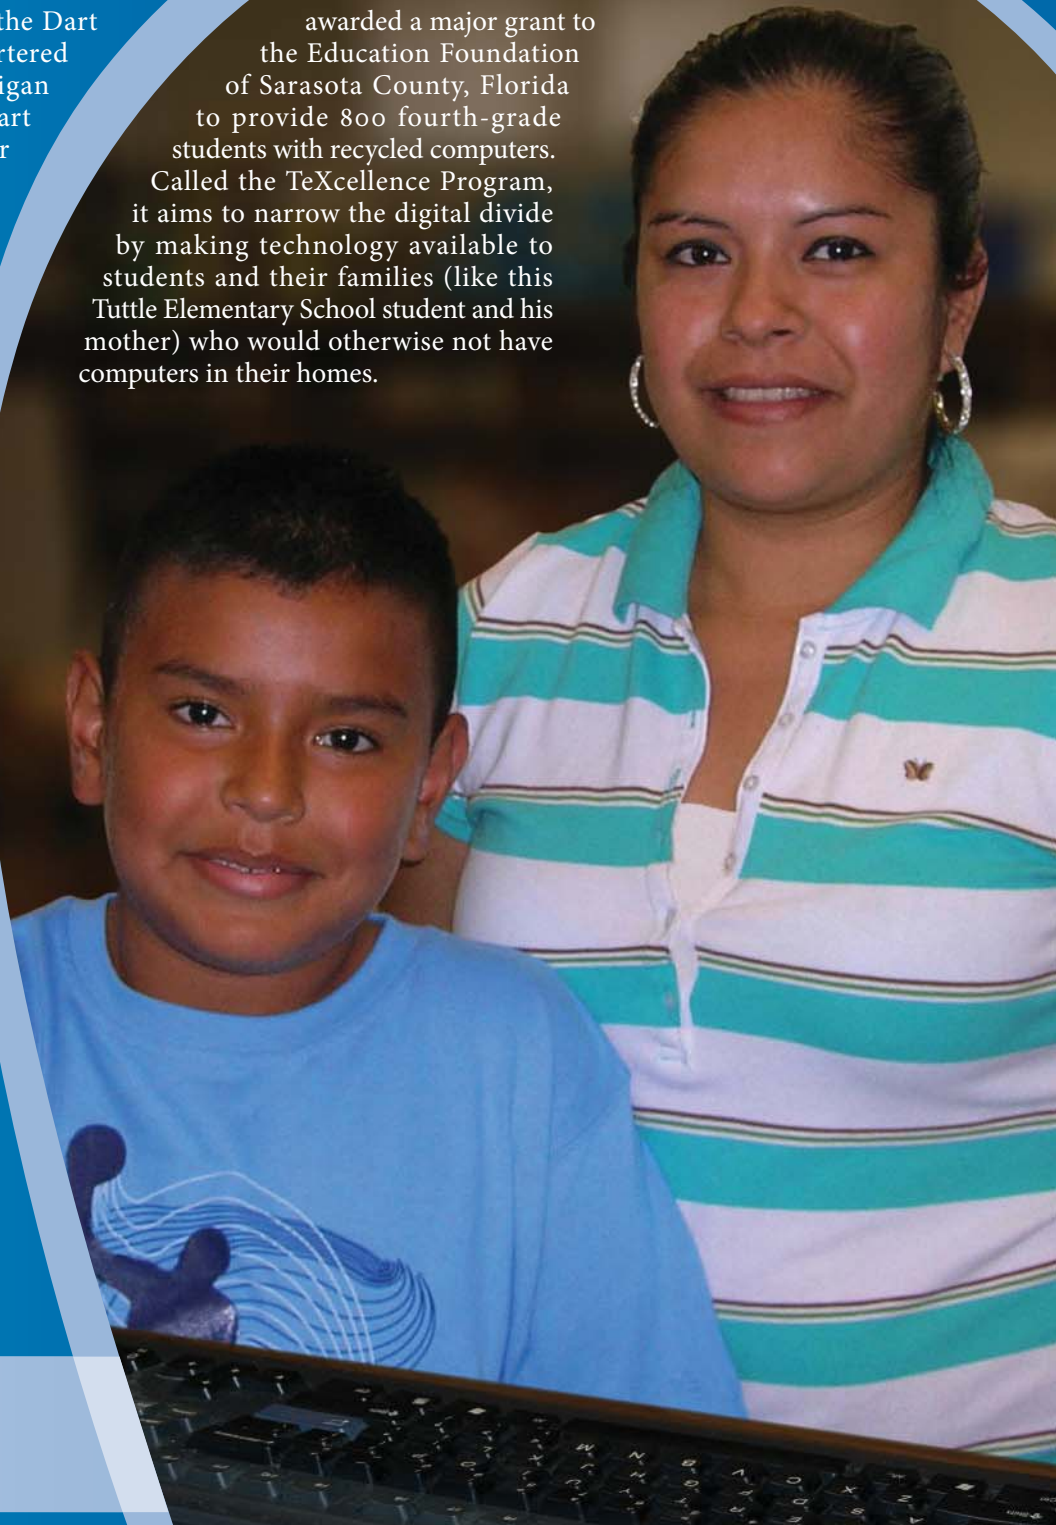

Mission

Historically, it has been the Dart Foundation's preference to make grants toward education (primarily math, science and engineering) and youth programs. Other major areas of interest have included health, disaster relief and journalism programs that focus on the accuracy of news reporting on scientific and environmental issues. Additionally, major support is given to national projects such as the Dart Center for Journalism and Trauma, a global resource for journalists who cover violence.

In August of 2007, the Dart Foundation awarded a major grant to the Education Foundation of Sarasota County, Florida to provide 800 fourth-grade students with recycled computers. Called the TeXcellence Program, it aims to narrow the digital divide by making technology available to students and their families (like this Tuttle Elementary School student and his mother) who would otherwise not have computers in their homes.

Journalism & Critical Incidents

The Dart Center for Journalism and Trauma, based at the University of Washington in Seattle and funded under a five-year commitment from the Dart Foundation, is a resource center for journalists covering violence, conflict and tragedy. With full-time efforts in Europe and Australia as well as the US, the Dart Center is the only global program of its kind. The list of Dart Center lectures, conferences and workshops includes the Dart Center Ochberg Fellows program, bringing together journalists from the US, Europe and Australia for a week of seminars in partnership with the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies.

Community Services/Programs

Since 2003, the Dart Foundation has provided operating support to the Volunteers of America's New Hope Day Shelter in downtown Lansing, Michigan. The problems of the general population such as mental illness, substance abuse and domestic violence are five to ten times greater in the homeless population. New Hope Day Shelter offered housing, food, employment and counseling to over 2,000 individuals in 2007. Women and children are the fastest growing part of those facing homelessness. The numbers of homeless veterans with physical and psychological illness is also increasing significantly.

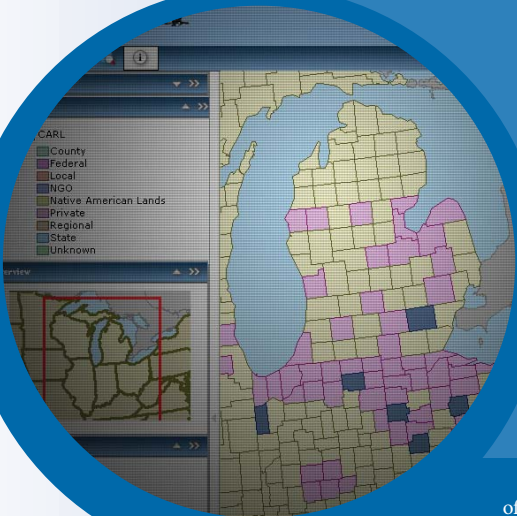

Volunteers of America is the nation's largest provider of services to homeless veterans.

Environment

A multi-year grant from the Dart Foundation has allowed The Nature Conservancy in Michigan to launch The Center for Conservation Science and Economics, intended to integrate and foster connections between top researchers, policymakers, business leaders and conservation practitioners. This Center will incubate ideas and ventures that link the natural resources of the Great Lakes region to business opportunities, with the ultimate goal of supporting the protection, conservation, and sustainable development of the Great Lakes – the largest freshwater ecosystem in the world.

The Conservation and Recreational Lands database and mapping project is a key part of the initiative the Dart Foundation is helping support.
